The importance of the Slovene territory in the scheme of the Allied military operations is also confirmed by the figures on the rescued Allied airmen shot down over our territory as well as by those of the liberated Allied prisoners of war and deportees from Allied countries. These data are a living witness to the fact that our Partisan units and the detachments of the Liberation Army were in control of the whole of the Slovene territory, their activity extending even beyond it into the Austrian Styria, the northern Carinthia and the Friuli-land. The Slovene people not only resisted the subjugation by the occupying forces whoever they were and however reckless, violent and bloody their rule was, but the force of the nation-wide resistance was such as to assemble all those whom the enemy thought to have made unharmed in different camps on the northern border of our territory. Numerous Allied airmen who had been shot down did not come into the hands of the enemy and had not to be written off from the fighting ranks of the Allies.

From all places, even those remotest, lying on the farthest border of Slovenia like Graz, Spittal and Udine, safe roads led to the liberated Slovene territory. In the lapse of time from the beginning of 1944 till the complete liberation, more than 800 Allied soldiers were received here by the HQ of Slovenia and conveyed to their military units. This figure comprises only those who passed over the free Slovene territory leaving out those who remained with our Partisans fighting in our Partisan detachments.

The HQ of Slovenia were setting down three lists: the first comprising the saved American airmen, the second recording the liberated British prisoners of war and saved British airmen and the third concerning the liberated prisoners of war and deportees from France and elsewhere.

These data reveal that the Allies had a reliable basis on our territory. Due to the Partisans our territory was far from being of that service to the enemy as it had been intended to be in 1941. On the contrary: the nation-wide active resistance which embraced the whole of the Slovene territory and even draw into its ranks the near-by lying neighbouring countries, placed the Slovene people together with the other Yugoslav peoples as an equal amidst the Allies that did for the common cause all it could do. There is a tendency towards overlooking this fact and the above figures are intended to draw attention to the contribution of the Partisans who had often paid for the safety of their Allied fellows in the fight against fascism with their own blood and life.

"As Senior Anglo-American Liaison officer to Headquarters Slovenia I take this opportunity to thank the National Army of Liberation and the Partisan Detachments of Slovenia and the Slovene people who support the Partisan movement under the leadership of Marshal Tito, for their considerate attention, their kind treatment, and their faithfulness to the Allied cause in the transporting, feeding, housing and the nursing of wounded American fliers, who have been shot down from the air by German aggressor. I realize and fully appreciate the sacrifices that are made by you to give our American fliers the kind attention they have received.

I have heard false rumours, originating by German propaganda that American fliers have been disfigured and mistreated by Partisan Slovenes. This is not true. I have talked with every American flier that has touched Slovene soil during my time of office here and each man informed me that he received only the kindest treatment and the best care from Partisan Slovenes.

The fliers think that you are wonderful people and they are very proud to be here with you during your struggle for freedom. I assure you that every Allied airplane that you see flying overhead is aware of your noble fight for freedom against the German invader and that each man sincerely hopes that if he is unfortunate enough to be shot down, that he will come into Partisan hands."

Captain J. Goodwin, head of the Anglo-American Military Mission to Headquarters of the National Army of Liberation and the Partisan Detachments

AMERICAN AIRMEN

POBEDA
British Monthly for Yugoslavia
February 12, 1945.

MAJOR GENERAL TWINING
EXPRESSES HIS THANKS TO YUGOSLAVIA

The High Command of the AAF,
February 7, 1945 (UNN)

Major General Natan F. Twining, Commander-in-chief of the 15th Air Force recently addressed the following message to the people of Yugoslavia:

"Fourteen months ago the American Air Force started flights across Yugoslavia and many American airmen made a forced landing or baled out into your countries.

"To-day instead of being German prisoners of war, they are free fighters, owing to the friendly attitude and bravery of men and women of Yugoslavia.

"Disregarding your own lives and the security of your families, you saved hundreds of lives of our airmen giving them food, medical aid and shelter. You walked for miles over difficult terrain, across rivers mountains, through rain and mud, but you always brought our airmen to a safe place.

"As the Commander-in-chief of the 15th AAF and in the name of the fathers and mothers of my airmen I am expressing the gratefulness of America for your valiant deeds. Our deepest thanks go also to all those who burned our dead and sent me their personal belongings.

"Your bravery, patriots, who have acted under serious dangers regardless of your own security, has won the hearts of our airmen for you and has created respect for yourselves and your country."

Authentic signatures by saved American Airmen mentioned under No. 9, 11, 12, American Airmen gave this banknote with their signatures as a keepsake to dr. Jože Globevnik, member of the Military Court attached to the Command of the Notranjsko operational zone.

BRITISH AIRMEN

"News Cronicle", June 28, 1944.

PHILIP JORDAN, News Cronicle War Correspondent

H. Q. British Military Mission in Yugoslavia.

No part of Yugoslavia has yet been permanently liberated. There is nothing to prevent me from walking freely from one end of the country to the other.

This apparent contradiction is not so ridiculous as it sounds, for the truth is that although there is no part of the country to which the Germans cannot penetrate, after costly and considerable preparation, there is equally no part of the country in which the National Army of Liberation operates where they can stay.

Tobruk Party Reach Allied Lines

3-MONTH WALK THROUGH YUGOSLAVIA

Cairo, Jan. 5. — A party of three allied officers and 60 men, some of them captured at Tobruk, have reached the safety of the allied lines in Italy after a three months' walk over the mountains of Yugoslavia. They included Major Charles Ballentine, a South African major of Engineers.

The men, part of a party of six officers and 80 other ranks, come from Britain, New Zealand, and South Africa.

Major Ballentine, who was captured at Tobruk, said that he and the other prisoners were placed in a cattletruck in a train bound for Germany soon after the Italian armistice. They escaped and decided to try to reach the allied lines instead of making for neutral Switzerland, which would have been a much shorter journey.

“One day we walked into a village inn and introduced ourselves to some Yugoslav partisans, who were recognizable by their green forage-caps with a red star,” he said. “They

NOTES

1. Our lists are not complete as they merely refer to the time from the end of 1943 onwards. It goes without saying that several Allied prisoners of war had been already saved until that time.

2. There might be some incorrectnesses in regard to the personal and place names as well to the rest of the data. But the setting down of these particulars took place under such unfavourable and difficult circumstances that the above mentioned shortcomings ought to be excused.

3. The IXth Corps which operated in the Slovene Littoral (called the Julian March) is often mentioned in the text. It was nearest to the Italian operational zone and it actually formed the link between Northern Italy and our territory as it is also evident from our lists. Owing to our Partisan fighting units in the Slovene Littoral, the liberation of innumerable Allied airmen and prisoners of war was rendered possible.
